CHILDLINE is a national, 24 hour, free, emergency phone outreach service for children in need of care and protection; linking them to long term rehabilitation and care.

from the editor's desk

India remains home to the largest number of child labourers in the world. Child labour is a concrete violation of a range of rights of children and enormously complex social problem in India. Despite having legislation against child labour particularly in hazardous industries, children are continued to be engaged in significant numbers in hazardous and non-hazardous sectors. Read more about Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act 1986 here: <http://www.childlineindia.org.in/Child-Labour-Prohibition-and-Regulation-Act-1986.htmw>

CHILDLINE, India's only helpline service in the country that rescues and rehabilitates thousands of child labourers a year, comes to the forefront on days such as 'World Day against Child Labour'. World Day against Child Labour is an event endorsed by the International Labour Organization (ILO). Each year June 12th is dedicated to the empowerment of children against all forms of child labour to create awareness amongst the public on the evils of Child Labour and enthuse people to stand up against the harm caused to children.

In an endeavour to create awareness on the subject, CHILDLINE conducted a national campaign which encouraged people to collaborate with our teams and distribute our poster amongst bypassers at railway stations, owners of dhabas, residential complexes etc which are hotspots of child labour.

The significance of World Day against Child Labour is important so as to highlight children's concerns through the media and the civil society. This in turn makes the government aware on the real number of child labourers in the country. Child Labour has been a peril to our society consistently. We ourselves witness this evil everyday. 12th June reminds us that we have the choice to voice our concerns against Child Labour. The only question is; are we willing to go the extra mile?

CHILDLINES all over India has unceasingly observed this day through Rallies, signature campaigns, distributing pamphlets, street shows etc to alert people on the issue and strengthen them to raise their voice and 'Say No to Child Labour!' Each city and district in India was bustling with events, activities and pledges with people from every nook and corner across the country came out to pledge their support. This edition of Hello Childline brings you case studies, activities held during on World Day Against Child held on June 12, 2015.

What is CHILDLINE?

CHILDLINE is a national, 24-hour, free, emergency phone and outreach service for children in need of care and protection. Initiated in 1996, as a pilot project in Mumbai, CHILDLINE is currently operational in 366 cities across 34 states / UTs in India.

CHILDLINE reaches out to the most marginalized children with the aim of providing them rehabilitation and care from unsafe situations. CHILDLINE provides relief and rehabilitation in the space of shelter, medical aid, repatriation, rescue, emotional support and guidance etc.

CHILDLINE Project across India is supported by the Union Ministry of Women and Child Development (MWCD) under the Integrated Child Protection Scheme (ICPS)

27 children employed as Bonded Labourers for embroidery work

27 children working in small dingy rooms with no light or ventilation were rescued by CHILDLINE Jaipur.

In a joint effort by CHILDLINE Jaipur along with Police, CWC members, 27 bonded labourers were rescued from embroidery work in a rented house located near Kareem Masjid in Jaipur. A call by a concerned citizen, claiming that bonded labourers were engaged in embroidery work was received by CHILDLINE.

Based on the information, CHILDLINE made a field-level investigation and found that the information was true. CHILDLINE representatives visited the place immediately and confirmed the matter. The team found children working in a congested and dirty room and working for long hours to receive a paltry sum per day and were given only one meal a day which led to his deteriorating health condition. The children were verbally abused and physically tortured for not completing their tasks on time. Upon inquiry, the team was able to determine the name of the owner.

The parents of the children were all illiterate and relied heavily on unskilled labour. As such they could not earn sufficiently to provide for their family and were forced to work odd jobs at various places. Since their condition was so miserable that none of them had even a proper home to live in, they had no option so they decided to send children for work which they too could earn a little extra to add to the family income. Due to poor financial conditions at home, children were sent to work in Jaipur with promise of a good job with a high salary to the family.

CHILDLINE contacted the Child Welfare Committee (CWC) sharing the information about the case. As per the CWC's direction, CHILDLINE representatives and police raided the place, rescued the children and arrested the culprits. The children were then taken to nearest government hospital for medical checkup. The children were given counseling sessions by CHILDLINE and sent to shelter homes. Today, 5 people have been arrested and booked under IPC Section 344, 374, 370(5) and JJ Act 23 & 26, the Child labour ( Prohibition and Regulation ) Act 1986 – 3 & 14.

A Lost Childhood - CHILDLINE saves little Indrani

"I was punished for every small mistake and the lady of the house often beat me, if i failed to obey her orders," reveals a ten year old Indrani who was rescued by CHILDLINE team.

Ten-year-old Indrani gets up at six in the morning to undertake all domestic chores such as cleaning, washing and babysitting an infant at the tender age. She was not being paid any salary and was told that her earnings were sent to her family back home. This is the story of a young orphan from Durgapur working at the house of Dipak and Tapasi in Titagarh, West Bengal.

The plight of the child took a new turn when her employers accused her of stealing money from a piggy bank kept in the prayer room. She was threatened, beaten up with a cane in order to reveal the truth. Her employers turned a deaf ear to her repeated pleas for mercy.

Seething with rage, Dipak dragged her to the open air terrace and made her spend the night in the biting cold. Fortunately, a neighbour spotted the girl crouching and shivering on the terrace and called CHILDLINE for help.

CHILDLINE immediately visited the place to verify the authenticity of the complaint. The team found signs of torture on her little body. Later that day, the CHILDLINE team along with local police visited the house and rescued the girl amidst much drama. As Indrani's injuries were severe, she was taken to BN Bose Road Hospital by the CHILDLINE team.

The traumatized child had deep scars on her body when she was taken to hospital. "I was punished for every small mistake and the lady of the house often beat me, if i failed to obey her orders," told Indrani to CHILDLINE team.

CHILDLINE Kolkata team filed an FIR against the couple under the Juvenile Justice Act, the Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act, 1986 and the Indian Penal Code. The girl has now been placed in the Girls' Home run by the State Women and Development Department.

11 children from Orissa sold as bonded labour

The plight of 11 innocent children began when their poverty and economic stature compelled them to travel to northern India in search of work. These children fell prey to their agents, namely, Bimal Oram and Kalsu Sahu, who lured them into handsomely paying jobs with accommodation in Rajasthan. To their dismay, the children were deployed to Shimla and sold to a company Raju Ranga Pvt. Ltd. in Rampur instead of Rajasthan.

Indira, Jawara, Bicha, Susil, Budhwa, Fagu, Eto, Karma, Bhupen, Ledhu and Jose began work in a tunnel as bonded labourers allegedly tortured both physically and mentally. Their employer refrained from providing even basic facilities for them. Tired and depressed with these harsh work conditions, 2 of the children managed to flee.

On reaching their native places, they narrated their tribulation to parents. Together, they sought help from CHILDLINE Rourkela to free the other children from bondage. Further, CHILDLINE advised the children and parents to press charges against the employer and lodge an FIR with the Bisra Police Station.

The children were disheartened by the Police's refusal to deal with any labour related cases. The CHILDLINE team and the aggrieved parents knocked the door of the Deputy Labour Commissioner (DLO) to find no avail. CHILDLINE Rourkela moved on to contact its counterpart in Shimla.

CHILDLINE Shimla and the local police led by Rampur ASP S Arul Kumar (IPS) jumped into action immediately. They managed to rescue all the children engaged as 11 bonded labourers children under the Bonded Labour System (Abolition) Act, 1976.

Subsequently, the children were handed over to the Resident Commissioner, Government of Odisha, New Delhi and were sent back to their native places. SK Bhargav, Principal Resident Commissioner deputed his staff to accompany the children from Delhi to Rampur, along with CHILDLINE team. He also urged the Sundargarh Collector to make necessary steps to receive the children at Jharsuguda railway station. The rescued children were repatriated with their parents.

CHILDLINE rescues four children from recycling unit

In a tip off received by CHILDLINE, 4 children confined to in a recycling Unit and were working under inhuman conditions for over four months were rescued by CHILDLINE, along with Rajarajeshwari Nagar police in Bangalore.

Four children were rescued from a recycling unit by CHILDLINE in association with Rajarajeshwari Nagar police in Bangalore. The children worked in a unit which was spread on over an acre in Rajarajeshwari Nagar and were illegally employed by Rajendra Prasad for plastic bag segregation, taken from open gutters. They were confined to the unit and were working under inhuman conditions for over four months.

The rescued boys, all said to be aged between 12 and 14 years, were brought from Navadha district in Bihar and said that their employer had promised to pay them Rs. 3,000 per month, which he sent to their parents. After a tip-off on child labourers, the CHILDLINE team rushed to the unit. They found the children washing the segregated plastic covers in waste water which was highly polluted with chemical particles.

The work area of the children was not visible as it was covered with sheets. The team eventually managed to enter the area through a small gate. Big plastic bags with chemicals were found inside and stink rose from the work area as the children had to wash the chemicals out of the plastic in dirty water. The children would wash the sheets in a storm water drain passing through the unit. Prasad would get huge bundles of plastic sheets from factories which were cut into pieces, washed and dried before being sold for recycling.

The team also discovered that the children were housed in an unhygienic shed adjacent to their work area that lacked basic facilities like electricity and clean drinking water. The children said that after reaching Bangalore, they were not allowed to go out anywhere and did not expect this kind of work. When they pleaded with the employer, Rajendra Prasad, to let them return home, he would shout at them. The boys worked 14 hours a day, from 6 am to 8 pm, and were allowed to bathe once in 15 days. Prasad provided grocery and the children cooked meals twice a day. Prasad would call their parents once a week and allow the boys to talk for a few minutes. That was the day the boys looked forward to.

The rescue team could not confront Prasad, as he had gone out. But the children provided information to the police based on which, appropriate steps will be taken by them. All the four rescued children were later produced before the Child Welfare Committee (CWC) for further action. Throughout the journey to the CWC, the boys were peering out of the windows of the vehicle. They said that this was the first time they were seeing the city. The police are on the lookout for the employer, who is absconding and as per the instructions from the CWC, the children were sent to a rescue home.

**Names of children have been changed to protect their identity where necessary*

CHILDLINE's crusade against Child Labour

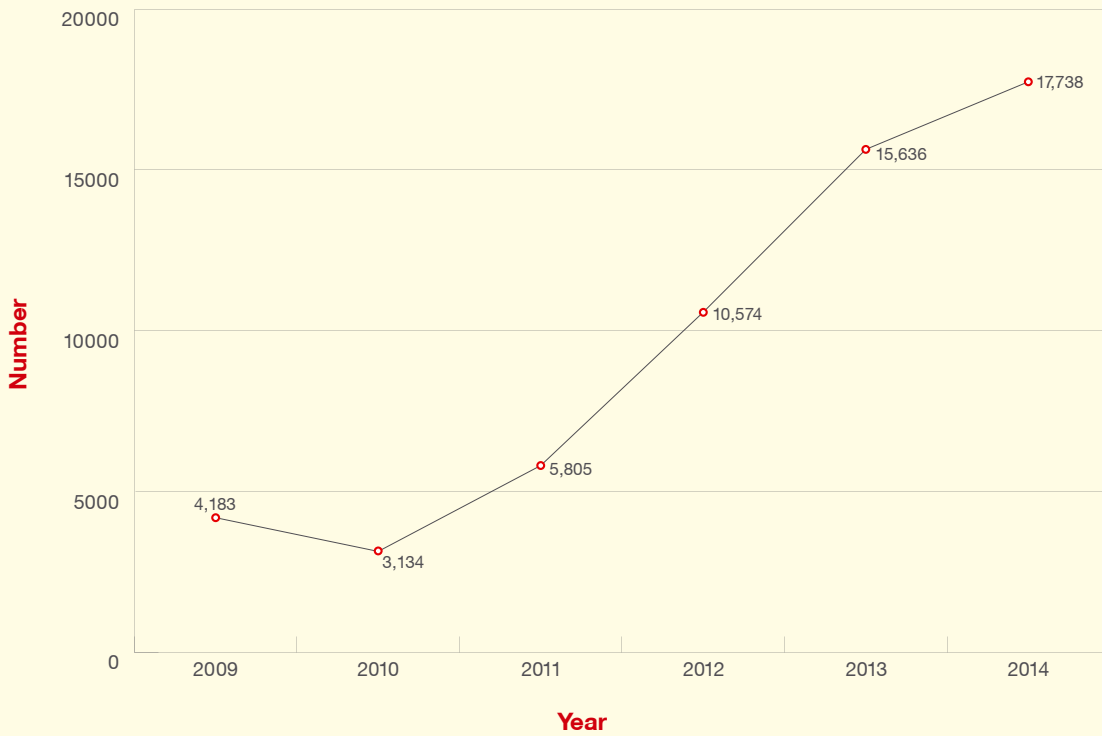

CHILDLINE's crusade against child labour has been ongoing since its inception in 1996. On an average CHILDLINE receives over 6.5 million calls a year, of which a large of calls are those requesting for rescue of /informing about a child being employed.

CHILDLINE has worked in various capacities to abolish Child Labour. Over the years CHILDLINE have intervened and been witness to several cases of child labour. Rescues and interventions of children in circuses, children working in zari industries, children being trafficked and many other forms of child labour are addressed through the 1098 service and advocacy initiatives by CHILDLINE.

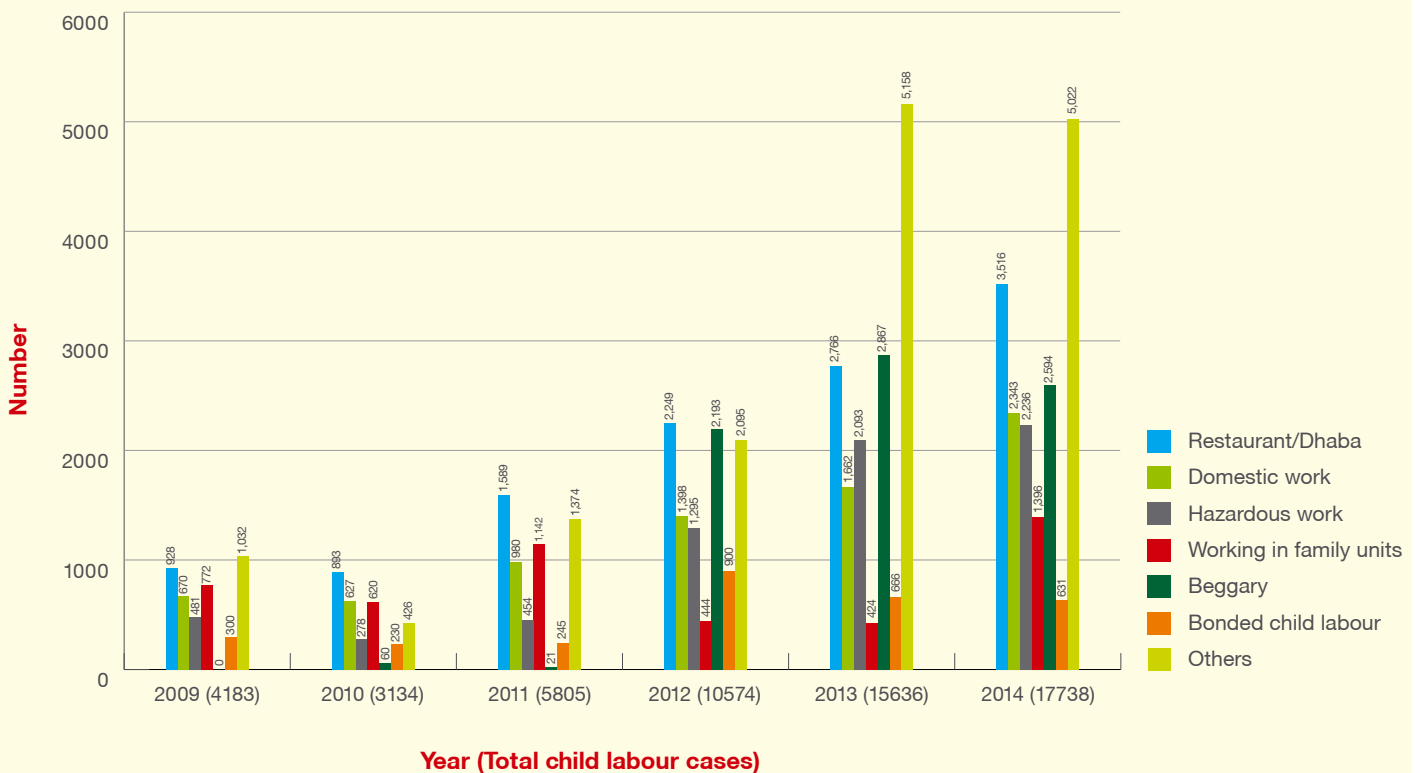

Be it recommendations to the existing laws, awareness programmes with the Police, rescue operations for children who call for help, nationwide campaigns to sensitize people about the gravity at hand, or creating an animation film on the issue, CHILDLINE has worked relentlessly to reach out to children who need to be saved from a life at bangle making factories, construction sites or even jobs as domestic labourers. Working with children at the grassroot level and addressing children's needs through our 1098 helpline service, we have observed an increase in calls for Child Labour.

CHILDLINE rescued 17,738 child labourers in 2014. The graphs below indicate the same:

"No to child labour, yes to quality education"- Inter-state consultation on protecting child rights

Stakeholders conduct interstate consultation on protecting child rights

Interstate Consultation of Stakeholders on Trans Border Protection of Children in commemoration to World Day Against Child Labour on 12th June 2012

K. Ela highlighted the present scenario of children in Dimapur and Karbi Anglong and pointed out that there are so many anti social activities in the...

Following suggestions were made: police to check inter border transfer of children, to do away with gender discrimination and treat the girl child as children and the future citizen, girls' education to be a priority for all parents and the Village council to keep a check on children going out from their village.

SDPO Bokajan Dr. Manabendra Gogoi, labour commissioner, government of Nagaland Nungphiyani and additional SP ASP (border) Karbi Anglong district Assam Nanda Singh APS also spoke on the occasion. CHILDLINE Centre coordinator also gave a short presentation on CHILDLINE activities and the issues relating to children in Dimapur and Karbi Anglong.

The program was attended by representatives from police department, labour department, district administration, DCPU, CWC, CHILDLINE Dimapur, VDP, NGO's, women leaders from both Karbi Anglong Assam and Dimapur, Nagaland.

"No to child labour, yes to quality education," an inter-state consultation of stakeholders on 'Trans Border Protection of Child Rights' was organised by CHILDLINE Dimapur in collaboration with ACID, Nagaland Police to commemorate World Day Against Child Labour at Bokajan Police station conference hall.

The programme was supported by DCPU, Dimapur, Labour Department, Government of Nagaland and hosted by Karbi Anglong Police, Government of Assam.

M&LOCAL

Inter-state consultation on trans-border protection of child rights

Among stakeholders - the police, NGOs, and other government agencies dealing with or related to child rights and the protection of children from abuse.

K. Ela, Collab director, Childline 1098, Dimapur highlighted the problem of transborder trafficking of children under the guise of adoption. Stating that despite concerted effort of stakeholders involved in the field, Ela said that many children fall prey, often landing up in pitiable environs.

It is not uncommon for families to "adopt" children on the condition that they help out with household chores and in return provide them education and other bare necessities. According to Ela such "adoption" formalities are completed under the full consent of the child or children's parents. This practice is not only illegal but also unethical, she said.

While some of these children do not want to return to their biological parents even when efforts are made to repatriate them, many still go missing trying to escape the abuse they face at the hands of their "adoptive" guardians. Terming it as a serious concern, she added that 80 percent of children reported missing are domestic helps. According to data maintained by Childline, Dimapur not less than 204 cases related to child rights violations were recorded.

Stating that intervening and rescuing such children alone is not enough, she said that prevention and rehabilitation is crucial. She added that such children need to be properly rehabilitated as quite often neglect and poverty happen to be the factors that drove them away from home.

Dr. K.P.A. Iyas, Deputy Commissioner of Police (zone II), Dimapur highlighted on legislations and international conventions on child rights. International Convention on the Rights of the Child (ratified by India in 1992), the Juvenile Justice, Care and Protection Act, Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act and the 86th Amendment of Indian Constitution were some of the laws and statutes which people must be aware of, he said. "A child cannot assert his or her rights. It is the duty of the guardian and the society to enable the child his or her rights."

SDPO and SDPO (Civil) of Bokajan sub-division were other officials who spoke at the programme.

Spreading the word: Films on Child Labour

Living with stones- children of the mines

The stone quarries of Gujarat resound with the patter of tiny arms and legs straining to break large hunks of stone. These are the children of migrant mineworkers, displaced from their homes, separated from friends and pulled out of school, as their parents seek temporary livelihood in the stone quarries of Gujarat.

This film, which is part of a CHILDLINE Report, examines the uprooted lives of these children who are forced, by circumstances, into hard physical labour; in the context of the mammoth, financially viable cement industry of India.

Education Counts

'Education Counts is an animation film addressing the issue of child labour in India. The film was created by Climb Media. The film caters from 8 year old to adults, an audience mostly concentrated in the urban and rural areas of the country where the issue of child labour is rampant. This simple narration sends out a strong message to the viewers!

Watch it on:

<http://www.childlineindia.org.in/1098/education-counts-video.html>

■ The Right to Education Act states that all children between 6-14 years are entitled to free and compulsory education, But the 'Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act 1986' allows children of all ages to work so long as they do not work in a specified 'hazardous' industry /process! Children's Right to Education is thus contravened by the 'Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act 1986.
